You can do it. You can create extraordinary outdoor places for young children without highly complex play contraptions surrounded by a sea of wood chips or gravel...Places for children that tickle the imagination and surprise the senses...Places for young ones of all abilities to discover themselves and the world around them.

This book is about a new movement in children's outdoor play areas, natural playscapes — Where the entire space and is filled with art, hills, pathways, trees, herbs, open areas, sand, water, music, and more...Where children find places to run, climb, dig, pretend, and hide, with opportunities to bellow or be silent.

This book is for anyone interested in creating beautiful, engaging outdoor environments for children. It was written for people like you.

Be sure to have an ample supply of sticky notes ready when you read it, because even the smallest amount of nature — perhaps as simple as a raised planter of petunias — can make a big difference in the world of children. This book will show you how.
